

Cities should ban private cars downtown because streets become places for people.